

Hello! I'm Cooper Belletto. Every day, music has a tremendous influence on my life, as it consistently pushes me to better myself and to bring a positive light into people's lives. I've had the opportunity to play during Mardi Gras, Mother's Day, and even for the NAACP for community gigs throughout the New Orleans area. I take a lot of inspiration from my dad and his band Egg Yolk Jubilee, as it always reminds me to just have fun with music. I've made it into the LMEA All-State Concert and Jazz bands as a sixth and first-chair alto sax player respectively, as well as helped lead and arrange music for a student-led combo at Haynes to perfect scores at Southeastern's highschool band festival. Music has taken me to the highest highs of my life, and every day I look forward to just staying humble, listening, and trying to learn. I hope I can continue making music and bringing emotion into people's lives for as long as I can!
