

Biography of Nicholas Harrison

Nicholas Harrison has been playing music for 8 years. Nocca has allowed him to embrace learning any form of music, by giving him the necessary skills needed to master any genre, ear training, musicianship class, dissecting classic works by master and the like. Nicholas has played at jazz fest with Donald Harrison, performed with trumpet mafia under the instruction of Ashlin Parker and John Michael-Bradford. He has played with the New Orleans young fellaz brass band, and has performed on WWOZ under both the Kipp brass band and with the Louis Armstrong jazz camp at Loyola. Nicholas has even performed for Nicholas payton at trumpet mafia, and Ellis Marsalis at the black history month event at Nocca. Nicholas currently learns under many masters in order to hone his craft, Michael Pellera, John Michael-Bradford, Gregory Agid, and Donald Harrison. Nicholas aims to be a great musician, for his seemingly infinite love of music and dedication to his craft, and he hopes that his music may affect those who listen in any way they can. But most of all, Nicholas just wants to have fun doing what he loves.
